

Intercultural Communication (IC301)
Island of Paros, 20 - 26 July 2014

This 7-day seminar on culture puts emphasis on multiculturalism and diversity aiming at raising participants' awareness and understanding of diverse cultures and countries, as well as developing a sense of European citizenship and identity, through formal and non-formal activities. The participants in the seminar will have the opportunity to exchange ideas and information through various classical and contemporary topics such as art, us and customs, history, literature, or current affairs. The programme includes visits to interesting sites, workshops in class and in the field, lectures, and participants' presentations on the relevant topics.

Please note that NEOHEL also offers special courses on Ellinomatheia (intensive preparation before the exams of May 2014), Modern Greek for adults & children, and Modern & Ancient Greek teaching. For more information please visit our site www.neohel.com

Whom is it for? For everyone with or without Erasmus+ grant.

SYLLABUS

Greece and the countries of the participants: compare and contrast

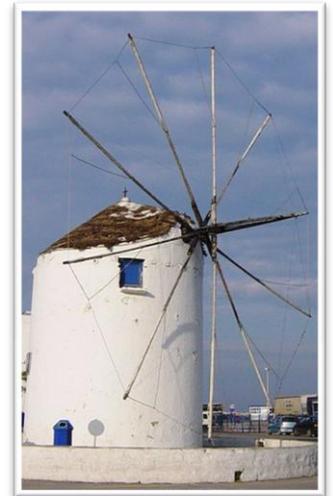

This seminar includes a general presentation of Greek history and culture throughout the ages through interactive and task-based activities, such as scavenger hunt, pre-task / in-class / post-class, and team building activities. Moreover, each session focuses on one or two of the specific topics:

- contemporary artists
- legends and myths
- music and songs
- us and customs
- folklore art
- literature texts
- history of a specific era
- fairy tales: motifs and topoi
- movies and theatre

SEMINAR RELATED ACTIVITIES

Some of the seminar related activities include visits to:

- attractive villages in the traditional Cycladic style;
- numerous picturesque churches, monasteries, and windmills;
- the renown church of Ekatontapyliani ("Our Lady of a Hundred Doors"). Ekatontapyliani, approximately 1600 years old, is one of the most exquisite samples of Byzantine architecture in Greece;
- the Archaeological Museum of Parikia; one of its most significant exhibits is a fragment of the 3rd century Parian Chronicle, a stele carved with events from 1582 BC to 299 BC;
- the Venetian "Kastro" (13th century AD) in the old quarter of Parikia;
- the Aegean Folklore Museum in the village of Lefkes; through its exhibits we will discover the Aegean Sea culture, including architecture, traditional trades and geology of the islands;
- the Byzantine Road; the trail, constructed about 1000 years ago and paved with marble, is the best known and best preserved section of the island's old stone paved streets. It takes about an hour to walk and links Lefkes with the beautiful village of Prodomos and its impressive maze-like alleys;
- the ancient marble quarry in Marathi;
- the festival of local produces, organized every July in Parikia; we will taste local cuisine and take part in the festivities, including music concerts and dancing;
- the small island of Antiparos, just a few nautical miles southwest of Paros; Chora, the main town of Antiparos, was built around a 15th century AD Venetian castle; the stone paved streets, the whitewashed alleys contrast with the thriving pink and purple bougainvilleas creating an enchanting atmosphere.
